Live Hard Global Adventures

Introduction

Adventure Lifestyle enthusiasts. Live Hard Global Adventures is a community designed to share adventure lifestyle pictures and videos along with inspirational stories that can benefit everyone. We seek to grow a global community of active people that care about the environment, believe they can make a difference by sharing experiences and helping others through charity and contribution of time and events. Additionally we seek to identify the benefit of learning through the adventure lifestyle and will be seeking participation with our Live Hard Global team via the AMS Adventure learning community of practice which can be visited at our linked web-site. You will see posts from time to time with thought leadership around adventure, learning and the advancement of both. Please help spread the word if you are inspired.

The Appalachia Ride for Awareness is a campaign that was designed to explore the Southeast's deep American Indian heritage, regional cuisine, and the coal industry's historical impact on the environment. Each daily route is structured to gain information and knowledge in all of these areas which can be transferred into historical and current learning opportunities that align to leadership, decision-making, social and environmental awareness. Our blog entries will be complimented with photographs and short stories that will connect our Facebook page and blog in a seamless way.

Additionally, we have selected a portfolio of charities which are highlighted on the previous page that we deemed relevant in meeting the strategic goals of our efforts to give back to worthy causes through our adventures. Please note that 100% of your donations go directly to each charity via their independent fund raising web sites.

We welcome you all to our adventure; hope that it provides both intellectual stimulation and inspiration to join us in the greater cause of social awareness and giving back as a community brought together through our social venture.
